

INVESTOR TEASER · AUGUST 2026

Sổ Sạch

Vietnam abolished lump-sum tax for 5.2 million household businesses.
Overnight, they all have to keep books. Almost none of them can.

An AI bookkeeper that lives inside Zalo. Photograph a receipt — the book writes itself.

This teaser contains no confidential information. The full deck is available under NDA.

A deadline set by law, not by a marketing plan.

Date	What changed	Consequence
01/01/2026	Lump-sum tax (thuế khoán) abolished for household businesses	5.2M businesses must self-declare on real books
30/04/2026	First quarterly declaration due under the new regime	Deadline recurs 4× a year, forever
2025–26	Decree 70/2025: e-invoicing from cash registers above 1 billion VND revenue (now carried in Decree 254/2026, in force 01/07/2026)	A threshold nobody can see without a book

- The state did the customer acquisition. Every one of these businesses now has a legal obligation it cannot meet with a paper notebook, and a penalty if it gets it wrong.
- Accounting software exists — and is aimed at companies with an accountant. A woman selling bún bò from a cart is not going to open a desktop ledger.

Three steps, and two of them are ours.

No app to install. It runs where 77 million Vietnamese already are.

2

We read it and write the book

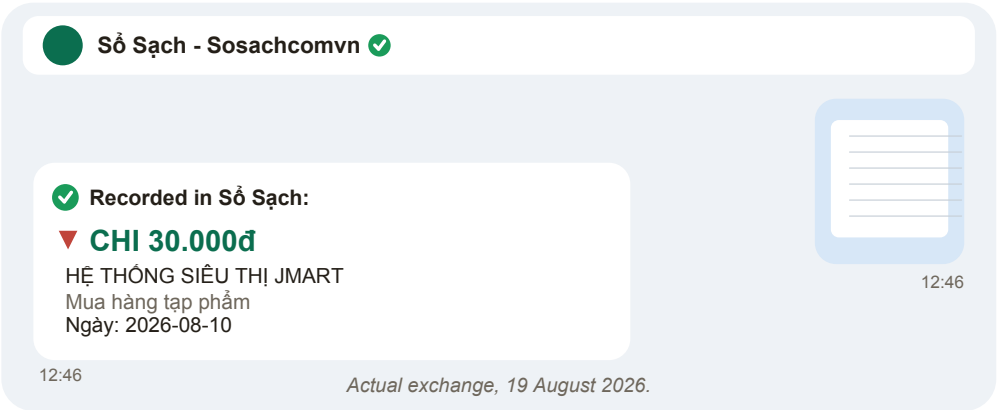

Amount, supplier, date, category — confirmed in one tap.

3

The declaration is already filled

Quarterly form 01/CNKD, drafted from the book she never had to keep.

It also tells her, in plain Vietnamese, how close she is to the tax threshold — before it costs her money.

Why this shape wins. The competing products are ledgers that assume an accountant. This one assumes a phone, a receipt and thirty seconds. The entire interface is a conversation she is already having forty times a day.

A country-sized segment the incumbents can't reach down to.

	Size	Definition
TAM	5.2M	household businesses required to keep books from 2026 (General Statistics Office)
SAM	~1.8M	smartphone-active, revenue 200M–3B VND — where the duty is real and the ability isn't
SOM (Y3)	40,000	~2.2% of SAM, built district by district from Hồ Chí Minh City outward

- Two customer shapes, one engine. Online sellers on Shopee and TikTok, whose tax is withheld at source and who need reconciliation; and street retail — eateries, kiosks, market stalls — who need the book itself.
- Vietnam is not the ceiling. The same shock — informal micro-business pulled into a declarative tax regime — is scheduled or under way across South-East Asia. The engine is not Vietnam-specific; the distribution is.

This is not a deck about something we intend to build.

WHAT IS NOT YET TRUE

No paying customers yet. We have a verified channel, a working product and a legal deadline pushing 5.2 million businesses toward it — and zero revenue. The paid pilot is the next milestone and it is precisely what this round funds. We would rather you heard that from us on slide five than found it on your own in diligence.

The hard part was never the software.

- A verified Zalo Official Account is a licence, not a signup. It took four review rounds, a wet-signed and sealed corporate filing, and a Vietnamese company that owns its own domain. A foreign team cannot obtain one quickly, and without one there is no channel to these customers at all.
- Distribution runs through people, not ads. These customers are not reachable by performance marketing. They are reachable by the person who already does their paperwork — and that relationship is built, not bought.
- The book compounds into something a lender wants. A subscription list is worth its subscriptions. A structured, provenance-tagged record of how tens of thousands of micro-businesses actually trade is worth considerably more, to counterparties who are not us.
- Compliance posture, never 'tax optimisation'. We compute what the law prescribes and defer to a licensed tax agent. In a regulated market that is the only position that survives contact with the authorities.

$300,000 to turn a working product into a paying one.

Where it goes	Why
Paid pilot & the agent channel	100 households in two districts, recruited through licensed tax agents — the one experiment that decides whether this is a business
Product & correctness	a bookkeeping product is a correctness product; the engineering spend is on being right, not on features
Vietnamese ground team	support and agent relationships in the customer's own language, in the customer's own district

We are not pitching a hockey stick. The plan is 40,000 subscribers at under $4 a month, against a free incumbent — and we will show you why we think that is the honest number.

What sits behind the NDA

A one-page mutual-respect document, signable the same day. Then you get all of this:

THE ECONOMICS

Unit economics per subscriber: COGS, gross margin, CAC by channel, payback period, LTV.

Three-year model with every assumption stated.

The tax-agent channel economics — including the uncomfortably small number at pilot scale.

THE MACHINERY

How the Zalo barrier was actually cleared, and why it is a moat rather than an anecdote.

The credit-readiness score and the provenance model that turns a ledger into an underwritable file.

Risks, and the kill criteria we have committed to.
